

Intrafamilial Child Sexual Abuse (ICSA)

Background

Learning Objectives

This one-day training course will equip professionals across health, education, social care and policing with an understanding of:

- The scale and nature of child sexual abuse
- How sexual abuse takes place in families
- Understanding the child's experience – the impact of abuse, signs and indicators of abuse and the barriers to disclosing it
- Children's disclosures and your role as a professional.

The training will support you to improve your understanding of child sexual abuse within the family environment and help you to better identify signs and indicators and respond effectively to protect children.
