Professional Curiosity in Safeguarding

This half day workshop is designed to provide opportunities to discuss the complex and emotive matter of Child Protection and the positions we adopt as multi-agency professionals seeking to work collaboratively and fairly with families in need.

The session will focus on relational aspects of assessing and managing risk, with an emphasis on exploring how we currently think and talk about Child Protection and how we may develop our skills in this work.

Learning Objectives

- To collaborate in conversations regarding what promotes and inhibits effective safeguarding with an explicit emphasis on accountability and efficacy.
- To think collectively about strengthening our abilities to effectively assess risk and intervene effectively.
- To consider the relational aspects of safeguarding practices and how we ensure the consistent demonstration of a rigorous and appreciative stance.
- To critically examine Use of Self and how our understandings and expectations are shaped and influenced by the contexts we inhabit.
