

The Cumulative Effect of Child Neglect

Background

Child neglect is one of the most common forms of child maltreatment, yet its impact is often less visible than other forms of abuse. This short training course explores how neglect can affect a child's physical, emotional, social, and cognitive development over time. Participants will gain an understanding of the cumulative nature of neglect, recognise the signs and indicators of ongoing harm, and consider the long-term consequences for children and young people. The course also highlights the importance of early identification, effective intervention, and a multi-agency approach to safeguarding children and promoting positive outcomes.

Learning Outcomes

- Recognise indicators of neglect and understand how neglect can present across different ages and stages of development.
- Understand the importance of multi-agency working in identifying, assessing, and responding to concerns about neglect.
- Apply safeguarding theory to practice, using professional curiosity, analysis, and evidence-informed approaches to support decision-making.
- Understand local safeguarding pathways and services, including referral processes, early help provision, and specialist support available for children and families.

FREE TRAINING

Facilitator

Amanda Jones,
RSCP Training Manager

ONLINE

Date: Tuesday 15/12/26

13:45	Registration
14:00	Start
16:00	Finish

ONLINE

Date: Wednesday 26/05/27

10:45	Registration
11:00	Start
13:00	Finish

To book your place, please use our online booking form. You can click here for more information on course fees and cancellations.